Analysis Essay Outline Sample

I. Introduction

A. Hook: Begin with an engaging statement or question to draw in readers.

B. Background Information: Provide context about the topic or text being analyzed.

C. Thesis Statement: Present the main argument or point of the analysis clearly.

II. Body Paragraph 1: Topic Sentence

A. Main Idea: Introduce the first main point of analysis.

B. Evidence: Include quotes or specific examples from the text.

C. Analysis: Explain how this evidence supports your main idea.

III. Body Paragraph 2: Topic Sentence

A. Main Idea: Introduce the second main point of analysis.

B. Evidence: Provide additional quotes or examples.

C. Analysis: Discuss how this evidence enhances your argument.

IV. Body Paragraph 3: Topic Sentence

A. Main Idea: Present the third point of analysis.

B. Evidence: Use relevant quotes or references.

C. Analysis: Connect the evidence back to the thesis.

V. Conclusion

A. Restate Thesis: Summarize the main argument of the essay.

B. Summary of Main Points: Briefly recap the key points discussed.

C. Closing Thought: End with a thought-provoking statement or call to action.

myperfectpaper.net

This structure can be adapted to fit different analytical topics, whether you're analyzing literature, social issues, or other subjects.

myperfectpaper.net